

Research Manitoba Announces Programs for 2018/19

April 30, 2018

We would like to thank the research community for being patient over the last year as Research Manitoba underwent a strategic planning process. The intent of the process was to provide our organization with a road map and establish a spectrum of funding programs that would bring the most impact to the Provincial research enterprise.

Research Manitoba's strategic plan for 2018/19 to 2020/21 is the result of extensive engagement with our internal and external stakeholders and identifies areas of emphasis and critical issues that need to be addressed over the next three years. The plan sets out our high-level strategic goals for the next three years, which are: support the generation of research, impact policy and practice through knowledge translation, and strengthen capacity for research in Manitoba.

In accomplishing these goals, Research Manitoba will be guided by two key strategic priorities:

- Focus efforts and identify priority areas to fund
- Raise the profile of research in Manitoba

With limited human and financial resources to fulfill a broad mandate to support research in health, social sciences and humanities, and natural sciences and engineering, Research Manitoba identified programs to ensure funding allocations will have maximum impact; we have included a figure on page two that shows our funding breakdown for 2018/19.

The following is a list of Research Manitoba's programs effective May 1, 2018:

- Master's Studentships
- New Investigator Operating Grants
- Matching Funding Programs

We are in the process of updating our website to reflect the changes to programs.

The Research Manitoba Board of Directors and staff are committed to keeping our stakeholders and members of the research community informed throughout the process of implementing our latest programs. We will be releasing information about upcoming competitions in early May 2018.
